DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1 – 12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Nakamura et al. in view of Knaebel.
3. With respect to claim 1, Nakamura et al. shows a GaN LED (see Figure 7 and column 4, line 45 et seq.) with a protective film covering the entire surface except for the electrodes which improves the reliability of the device (column 10, line 42). Nakamura et al. do not show encapsulation of the LED but Knaebel shows an LED with an encapsulant (see cover Figure and column 4, line 65) where the encapsulant provides a uniformly illuminated area (see abstract). Knaebel also shows that the encapsulant receives both a cure and a post cure heat treatment at temperatures of 120 – 140 degree C (column 10, line 50). It would have been obvious to encapsulate the Nakamura et al. device as shown by Knaebel to improve the output of the device. Note that since the device processing of Knaebel is not performed in vacuum there will be some ambient relative humidity and the encapsulation is performed in an atmosphere having humidity. However, the limitation of heat-treating the device in an ambient atmosphere containing humidity is a processing limitation that does not carry weight in a claim drawn to a structure.
4. With respect to claim 2, the heat treatment is carried out at a temperature greater than 60 degrees C.

5. With respect to claim 7, it is obvious to assume that the processing is done at ambient atmospheric pressure.
6. With respect to claims 3 – 6, and 8 - 12, the limitation of heat-treating the device in an atmosphere containing humidity is a processing limitation that does not carry weight in a claim drawn to a structure.

Response to Arguments

7. Applicant's arguments filed 11/18/02 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.
8. Applicant states that there is no humidity at a temperature of 100 degrees C or greater which is incorrect. Note that water boils at 100 degrees C and the liquid becomes a vapor and if this vapor is in a sample of air it represents humidity.
9. Applicant states that there is no teaching of forming the device and hardening/heat treating it in an atmosphere having humidity but it is almost impossible to perform this process without having humidity present, it would have to be done in a vacuum.

Conclusion

10. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37

Art Unit: 2814

CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
